With much anticipation and gratitude, I am resigning as Executive Director of Open Studio Project on November 1, 2012.

OSP is dear to my heart, an endeavor I have spent 20 years in creating and sustaining. It has been a very valuable and important part of my life. I have put in and received so much energy from my time here. Those years have given me a chance to grow, and develop personally as well as professionally and interact with a creative and committed community. I am so proud to be part of OSP as it has been a true gift and a wonderful experience.

And with great enthusiasm I am delighted to announce Janet Beals Orejudos, will be OSP's new Executive Director. Not only is Janet a long time Participant and Facilitator of the OSP process, Janet was our very 1st and our most recent Board President. Janet has helped our organization get through lean times and challenges as well as to thrive and grow. She is a well-respected fund raiser with years of experience as a Development Director in the non-profit world. I am so pleased and grateful to leave the helm of OSP in Janet's capable hands at this time of great potential and growth.

I am happy to report that I will continue to be involved with OSP as a Board member and participant in our essential creative process.

Looking forward to 20 more years of success, vibrancy and creativity in our community,

Dayna B. Block
Executive Director
